Article 39 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 01.07.2021 № 61-VII (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 40. Secondment of an employee

1. Employee secondment shall refer to the employee (seconded) performing work in a certain specialty, qualification or position (employment function) due to employment contract or other position, specialty, qualification of another legal entity (including its branches, representative offices and/or other separate structural units), as well as in branches, representative offices and (or) other separate structural subdivisions of the same legal entity, with the exception of restrictions stipulated by the legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

For the purposes of this Article, the receiving party shall mean the legal entities referred to in part three of this paragraph.

In order to ensure the fulfillment of certain tasks, employees can be seconded to the following receiving parties:

1) to a legal entity (its branches, representative offices and/or other separate structural subdivisions) that shall be the founder, participant or shareholder of the employer, as well as which indirectly owns the shares (shares in the authorized capital) of the legal entity - the employer;

2) to a legal entity (its branches, representative offices and/or other separate structural subdivisions) whose shares (shares in the authorized capital) are directly or indirectly owned by the legal entity - the employer;

3) to a legal entity (its branches, representations and/or other separate structural subdivisions), shares (shares in the authorized capital) in which directly or indirectly belong to persons who directly or indirectly own shares (shares in the authorized capital) of the legal entity - the employer.

2. Conditions, procedure, term of secondment of the employee, list of positions and number of seconded employees shall be determined by agreement between legal entities according to civil legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan depending on the purposes of secondment.

If a legal entity (including its branches, representative offices and/or other separate structural units) is simultaneously assigned more than ten percent of the average number of employees per year, it is necessary to coordinate the secondment with representatives of the workers of the receiving party.

3. Behind the seconded employee, the place of work (position) shall be retained by the employer who makes the secondment.

4. The secondment shall be allowed only with the written consent of the parties to the labor contract by signing an additional agreement to the labor contract indicating the place of work for the period of secondment. At the end of the secondment period, if the employment contract continues, the employer shall undertake to provide the employee with the place of work (position) that the employee held before the secondment.

5. For the period of secondment, the employee shall be subject to the working and rest time of the receiving party, with the exception of the duration and procedure for granting annual paid work leave.

6. In case of violation of labor discipline by the seconded employee, the receiving party shall notify the employer of the seconded employee within three working days from the date of discovery of this fact with the submission of supporting documents for the decision to bring him to disciplinary liability in accordance with the labor legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

7. In the event of an accident involving a seconded employee, the organization of an investigation into an accident involving employment shall be entrusted to the receiving party with the participation of the employer's representative.

8. The secondment shall not be allowed for the purpose of:

1) replacement of employees of the receiving party who refused to perform work in cases and procedures established by the labor legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan;

2) performance of works in case of idle (temporary suspension of work by the receiving party), implementation of bankruptcy procedure by the receiving party, introduction of part-time working conditions by the receiving party in order to preserve jobs in case of threat of dismissal of employees.

2. The use of disciplinary sanctions not provided for by this Code and other laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan is not allowed.

Footnote. Article 64 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 156-VI dated 24.05.2018 (shall be enforced upon expiry of ten calendar days after its first official publication); dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 65. Procedure for applying disciplinary sanctions

1. Disciplinary sanctions shall be imposed by the employer by issuing an act of the employer, except in cases provided for by the Laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan. In cases provided for by the Laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan, the provisions of this Article and Article 66 of this Code shall apply when a disciplinary sanction is imposed by the first head of the national management holding.

2. Prior to the application of a disciplinary sanction, the employer must request an explanation from the employee in writing (on paper or in the form of an electronic document certified by electronic digital signature) or in electronic form with the provision of authorization and identification of the employee.

The requirement to provide an explanation of the fact of the committed disciplinary misconduct shall be drawn up in written form (on paper or in the form of an electronic document certified by electronic digital signature) and shall be awarded to the employee personally or by courier mail, mail, fax, e-mail and other information and communication technologies confirming receipt of the employer's request.

If the employee evades or refuses to receive the request, the representative of the employer shall draw up a corresponding act.

If the employee does not provide an explanation after two working days from the date of receiving the claim or drawing up an act of evasion or refusal to receive the claim, the representative of the employer shall draw up a corresponding act.

Failure by the employee to provide an explanation shall not be an obstacle to disciplinary action.

3. For each disciplinary offense, only one disciplinary sanction may be applied against the employee.

4. The employer's act on imposing a disciplinary sanction on an employee may not be issued in the period of:

- 1) temporary disability of the employee;
- 2) the release of the employee from work for performance of the state or public duties;
- 3) finding an employee on vacation or rotational vacation;
- 4) finding an employee on a business trip.
- 5) conduct an investigation of an accident related to work activity against persons who have committed violations of health and safety requirements.

5. The act on imposing a disciplinary sanction shall be declared to the employee subjected to disciplinary sanction against the signature within three working days from the date of its publication. In the event of an employee refusing to confirm familiarization with the employer's act with his / her signature, an appropriate entry in the act on imposing a disciplinary sanction is made.

If it is not possible to familiarize the employee personally with the employer's act on the imposition of a disciplinary sanction, the employer must send the employee a copy of the act on the imposition of a disciplinary sanction by mail by registered letter with a notification of its delivery within three working days from the date of issuance of the employer's act.

Footnote. Article 65 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 156-VI dated 24.05.2018 (shall be enforced upon expiry of ten calendar days after its first official publication); dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 01.07.2021 № 61-VII (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 66. Term of imposing and duration of disciplinary sanction

1. Disciplinary sanction for an employee is imposed directly upon revelation of a disciplinary offense, but not later than one month from the date of its detection, with the exception of cases stipulated by paragraph 4 of Article 65 of this Code and other laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

In cases stipulated in Article 176 of this Code, disciplinary sanctions shall be imposed not later than one month after the entry into legal force of the court decision on recognizing the strike as illegal.

2. A disciplinary penalty cannot be applied later than six months from the date of the commission of a disciplinary offense, and in cases established by the laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan, or the establishment of a disciplinary offense based on the results of an audit or inspection of the financial and economic activities of the employer - later than one year from the date of the employee's disciplinary offense.

3. Consideration of the issue of disciplinary liability and the course of the period for imposing a disciplinary sanction shall be suspended during the period:

CHAPTER 8. LABOR STANDARDIZATION AND REMUNERATION

Article 101. Labor standardization

1. The labor standards (time, performance, labor intensity, maintenance, numerical strength) are the measure of labor costs and are established for an employee of appropriate qualifications in accordance with the level of equipment, technology, organization of production and labor.

2. Development, introduction, replacement and revision of labor standards are carried out by the employer in the manner established by the authorized state body for labor.

3. Labor standards are subject to mandatory replacement in the process of attestation and rationalization of workplaces, introduction of new technology, equipment and organizational and technical measures that ensure growth of labor productivity.

Achievement of a high level of production (provision of services) by individual employees through the use of new methods of work and improvement of workplaces at their own initiative is not a basis for reviewing the previously established labor standards.

4. Employees are notified of introduction of new labor standards by the employer not later than one month prior to it.

5. When developing labor standards, the following should be ensured:

- 1) quality of labor standards, their optimal approximation to necessary labor costs;
 - 2) establishment of similar labor standards for the same work performed in similar organizational and technical conditions;
 - 3) progressive nature of labor standards based on scientific and technological achievements;
 - 4) coverage by the labor standards of those types of work for which it is possible and appropriate to establish the labor standards;
 - 5) technical (scientific) validity of labor standards.
6. The labor standards in the organization, for the services (goods, works) of which the state regulation of tariffs (prices, fee rates) is introduced, are approved by the employer in agreement with the authorized state bodies of the relevant areas of activity and with the authorized state body for labor in accordance with the procedure established by it.
7. Typical norms and labor standards are developed and approved by the employers' industrial associations, uniform and (or) inter-industrial model norms and labor standards for all areas of activity are approved by the National Chamber of Entrepreneurs of the Republic of Kazakhstan in agreement with representatives of employees in accordance with the procedure established by the authorized state body for labor.
8. Qualification requirements for employees and complexity of certain types of work are established on the basis of professional standards, and in their absence - on the basis of the Unified tariff-qualification reference book of jobs and occupations of workers, the Qualification reference book of positions of managers, specialists and other employees, the tariff-qualification characteristics of occupations of workers and standard qualification characteristics of positions of managers, specialists and other employees of organizations.

Article 102. State guarantees in labor remuneration area

- 1) the minimum monthly wage;
- 2) the minimum amount of hourly wages;
- 3) payment for overtime work;
- 4) payment for work on holidays and weekends;
- 5) payment for night work;
- 6) limiting the amount of deductions from the employee's salary;
- 7) the procedure and terms of payment of wages.

Article 103. Amount of wages

1. The amount of the monthly salary of the employee is established differentially, depending on qualification of the employee, complexity, quantity and quality of the work performed, as well as working conditions. The size of the monthly salary is not limited to the maximum size.

The wage is paid to the employee for the time actually worked by him, recorded in the employer's documents on recording the working hours.

1-1. The amount of the main salary of the employees of the sending party shall be not less than the amount of the main salary of the employees of the receiving party for a similar position, corresponding qualification, specialty or profession, complexity, quantity and quality of the work performed, as well as industrial and household conditions in accordance with the contract for the provision of personnel services.

The wages of the employees of the sending party shall be paid for the time actually having worked by them, recorded in the documents on recording the working time of the receiving party.

2. The amount of the monthly salary of an employee who has completely worked out the working hours that have been determined for this period and has fulfilled the labor standards or labor obligations, may not be lower than the minimum monthly wage established for the relevant fiscal year by the law of the Republic of Kazakhstan on the republican budget.

The provisions of part one of this paragraph shall not apply to the cases provided for in part two of paragraph 2 of Article 75 of this Code.

Footnote. Article 103 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 19.12.2020 № 386-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 20.04.2023 No. 226-VII (shall be enforced from 01.07.2023).

Article 104. Minimum wage determination

1. The minimum monthly wage set annually for the relevant financial year by the law of the Republic of Kazakhstan on republican budget should not be lower than the subsistence minimum and does not include surcharges and allowances, compensatory and social benefits, bonuses and other incentive payments and is paid in proportion to the worked time.

2. The minimum amount of the hourly salary of an employee who has fulfilled his labor duties may not be less than the minimum monthly wage divided by the average monthly number of working hours according to the working time balance for the corresponding calendar year.

3. The minimum monthly wage or the monthly wage rate of a first-class employee provided for by the terms of labor, collective contracts and (or) acts of the employer may not be less than the minimum monthly wage established for the relevant fiscal year by the law of the Republic of Kazakhstan on republican budget.

Article 105. Remuneration of employees, employees of the guiding party engaged in hard work, work with harmful and (or) hazardous working conditions

Footnote. The title of the Article 105 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 19.12.2020 № 386-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

1. Payment for labor of workers engaged in heavy work, work with harmful and (or) dangerous working conditions is established in an increased amount in comparison with payment for labor of workers engaged in work with normal working conditions, by establishing the increased official salaries (rates) or additional payments, the size of which is determined by a collective contract or an employer's act, taking into account the industry coefficients that classify working conditions by the degree of harmfulness and danger determined by the industrial agreement.

2. Payment for labor of workers engaged in heavy work, work with harmful and (or) dangerous working conditions, in an increased amount is carried out according to the List of industries, workshops, professions and positions, the list of heavy work, work with harmful and (or) dangerous working conditions.

3. The labor payment conditions established by this article are provided to workers whose involvement in heavy work, work with harmful and (or) dangerous working conditions is confirmed by the results of attestation of production facilities for working conditions.

Based on the results of certification of production facilities according to the working conditions of the receiving party, increased job salaries (rates) or surcharges for employees of the sending party shall be established when concluding a contract for the provision of personnel services.

In the event that the employer fails to certify the production facilities for labor conditions, and also for workplaces that are not subject to attestation, the wages of workers engaged in heavy work, work with harmful, dangerous working conditions are made according to the List of industries, workshops, professions and positions, a list of heavy work, work with harmful and (or) dangerous working conditions.

Footnote. The Article 105 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 19.12.2020 № 386-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 106. Hourly wage

1. The terms of the employment contract and (or) the act of the employer may establish hourly wages for work actually performed during part-time working day or part-time work, the application of joint employment, as well as for payment of temporary or one-time work. With a reduced working time for certain categories of employees provided for by this Code, hourly wages are established.

2. Remuneration for labor in the summarized recording of working hours is made for the actually worked-out working hours on the shift schedule (watch schedules). At the same time, wages are calculated on hourly tariff rate calculated on the basis of the tariff rate (official salary) and the monthly standard of working hours in accordance with the working time balance for the corresponding calendar year.

Footnote. Article 106 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 20.04.2023 No. 226-VII (shall be enforced from 01.07.2023).

Article 107. Remuneration system

1. Salary to an employee is established by an employment contract in accordance with the remuneration systems of the employer.

2. The system of labor remuneration is determined by the terms of labor, collective contracts and (or) acts of the employer.

3. To increase the interest of employees in improving production efficiency and quality of work performed, the employer may introduce bonus schemes and other forms of labor incentives defined by the terms of the collective contract and (or) acts of the employer.

4. The wage system should ensure a share of the basic wage of at least 75 percent in the wages of employees without taking into account one-time incentive payments.

5. Conditions of remuneration determined by agreements, labor, collective contracts and acts of the employer may not be worsened in comparison with the conditions established by this Code and other normative legal acts of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

Article 108. Overtime payment

With time-based pay, overtime work is paid at an increased rate under the terms of the labor or collective contracts and (or) the employer's act, but not lower than one and a half amount based on the daily (hourly) rate of the employee. In case of piecework remuneration, the extra payment for overtime work is made at a rate not less than fifty percent of the established daily (hourly) rate of the employee.

By agreement of the parties, hours of rest are allowed for overtime work at the rate of not less than one hour of rest per one hour of overtime work.

Footnote. Article 157 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 483-V dated 06.04.2016 (shall be enforced upon expiry of ten calendar days after its first official publication); dated 20.04.2023 No. 226-VII (shall be enforced from 01.07.2023).

Article 158. Terms, scope of a collective contract and responsibilities of the parties

1. A collective contract is concluded for a period determined by the parties.

2. A collective contract shall enter into force from the moment of its signing, unless otherwise provided by its provisions, and is binding on the parties.

In case of expiration of the collective agreement, it shall be considered extended until the conclusion of a new collective agreement, but not more than for a period of up to one year, provided that at least one of the parties before the expiration of its validity period shall make a proposal to conclude a new collective agreement.

The collective agreement may provide for its extension before the date of the conclusion of a new collective agreement without limiting the period established by part two of this Paragraph.

3. A collective contract shall apply to the employer and employees of the organization on behalf of whom the collective contract is concluded and to the employees who joined it. The terms and conditions of accession are defined in the collective contract.

4. Upon liquidation of the organization, declaring it bankrupt, a collective contract terminates on the date of termination of employment contracts with all employees.

5. Evasion of representatives of the parties to participate in negotiations to conclude, amend or supplement a collective contract or the unjustified refusal to conclude a collective contract, violation of the terms of the negotiations and failure to ensure the work of the relevant commission, failure to provide the information necessary to negotiate and monitor compliance with the provisions of the collective contract, as well as the violation or non-fulfillment of its conditions entail responsibility established by the laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

Footnote. Article 158 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan No. 147-VI dated 16.04.2018 (shall be enforced upon expiry of ten calendar days after its first official publication).

CHAPTER 15. CONSIDERATION OF INDIVIDUAL LABOR DISPUTES

Article 159. Order of consideration of individual labor dispute

1. Individual employment disputes shall be considered by the conciliation commissions, except for disputes arising between the employer and the employee of the microenterprise, a non-profit organization with a number of employees of no more than fifteen people, a domestic worker, the sole executive body of a legal entity, the head of the executive body of a legal entity, as well as other members of the collegial executive body of a legal entity, and on unresolved issues or failure to comply with the decision of the conciliation commission - courts.

The requirement to establish a conciliation commission to consider individual employment disputes in accordance with the procedure established by this Code shall not apply to certain categories of workers whose work shall be regulated by the Employment Code of the Republic of Kazakhstan with the peculiarities provided for by special laws and other regulatory legal acts of the Republic of Kazakhstan, including those serving in military service, employees of special state and law enforcement agencies, state employees.

2. The conciliation commission is a permanent body established in the organization on a parity basis from an equal number of representatives from the employer and representatives of employees.

The collective agreement may provide for the creation of conciliation commissions in branches, representative offices and other separate structural divisions of the organization.

3. The procedure for the formation and activities of the conciliation commission are determined by the agreement on the work of the conciliation commission, which is concluded between the employer and the representatives of employees, or a collective agreement.

An agreement on the work of the conciliation commission or a collective agreement must contain provisions on the number of members of the conciliation commission, the procedure for electing the chairman and secretary from among the members of the conciliation commission, the procedure for submitting an application to the conciliation commission, the procedure and rules of work of the conciliation commission, the procedure for making a decision by the conciliation commission and its content, the term of office of the members of the conciliation commission, the provision of guarantees to its members and other issues related to the organization of the work of the conciliation commission.

It is allowed to hold a meeting of the conciliation commission with the use of information and communication technologies. In this case, the participation of the members of the conciliation commission and other persons is confirmed by an electronic digital signature or other electronic means with the authorization, identification and preservation by the employer of the record of the meeting.

4. An application submitted to the conciliation commission shall be subject to mandatory registration by the said commission on the day of filing.

The dispute is considered in the presence of the applicant and / or the representative authorized by him within the limits of authority delegated to him in accordance with the normative legal acts of the Republic of Kazakhstan. It shall be allowed to consider the dispute without the participation of the applicant with his written consent.

The applicant has the right, prior to the decision of the conciliation commission, to withdraw the previously submitted application by notifying the secretary of the commission in writing about the withdrawal of the application.

A person who has previously been in an employment relationship has the right to delegate by written application the right to represent his interests in the conciliation commission to trade union bodies, elected representatives of employees.

4-1. An individual labor dispute, the party to which is an employee, including one who was previously in an employment relationship, rendering (rendered) assistance in combating corruption in an organization by informing the superior head and (or) the management of this organization, is considered with the mandatory invitation of a representative of the authorized body for combating corruption in the manner prescribed by this article, taking into account the specifics established by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan "On combating corruption", and ensuring confidentiality in the presence of an agreement on non-disclosure of information on assistance in combating corruption, concluded in accordance with the procedure established by the legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan on combating corruption.

The invitation of a representative of the authorized anti-corruption body is made by sending the organization specified in part one of this paragraph a notification and relevant materials related to the labor dispute to the authorized anti-corruption body, indicating the place and time of consideration of the labor dispute no later than three working days before its consideration.

If a representative of the authorized anti-corruption body fails to appear for consideration of a labor dispute, a meeting of the conciliation commission shall be held without his participation in the manner prescribed by this article, taking into account the specifics established by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan "On combating corruption".

The requirements of parts one, two and three of this paragraph are valid for three years from the date of receipt by the authorized state bodies of the employee's notification of the fact of a corruption offense or from the moment he provides other assistance in combating corruption.

If the head of the organization receives a notification from the authorized anti-corruption body about the need to consider an individual labor dispute between an employee, including one who previously had an employment relationship, who assisted in combating corruption, and the employer, the employer is obliged to take measures to consider this dispute in the manner prescribed by this article, taking into account the specifics established by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan "On combating corruption."

5. The conciliation commission shall review the dispute within fifteen working days from the date of registration of the application and issue copies of the decision to the parties to the dispute within three working days from the date of its adoption.

The conciliation commission is headed by a chairman elected by the members of the commission from among the representatives of the employer and representatives of employees on a rotating basis with a frequency of at least once every two years.

The meeting and the decision of the conciliation commission are valid if, when considering an individual labor dispute, an equal number of members of the conciliation commission were present at the meeting on the part of representatives of the employer and representatives of employees. Each member of the conciliation commission has one vote when voting.

The decision must be reasoned, stated in writing and signed by the chairman and secretary of the conciliation commission.

The members of the conciliation commission are released from performing their work duties for the time of consideration of an individual labor dispute with the preservation of wages.

6. The decision of the conciliation commission is subject to execution within the period established by it, which may not exceed one month from the date of the decision of the conciliation commission, with the exception of a dispute about reinstatement.

The amounts to be paid by the employer by the decision of the conciliation commission are paid to the applicant no later than the next month established for the payment of wages after the decision of the conciliation commission.

7. In case of non-fulfillment of the decision of the conciliation commission within the time period established by it or non-settlement of issues, the employee or a person who previously had an employment relationship, or the employer has the right to apply to the court

8. Members of the conciliation commission shall be required to undergo annual training on the application of the employment legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan, the development of skills in negotiating and reaching consensus in employment disputes.

Footnote. The Article 159 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 03.01.2023 No. 188-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication); dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 160. Terms of application for review of individual labor disputes

To apply to the conciliation commission or to the court for review of individual labor disputes, the following terms are established:

1) on disputes about reinstatement at work - one month from the day of delivery or sending by mail by registered letter with a notification of delivery of a copy of the employer's certificate of termination of the employment contract to the conciliation commission, and to apply to the court - two months from the day of delivery or sending by mail by registered letter with a notice of delivery of a copy of the decision of the conciliation commission when dealing with unresolved disputes or when the party fails to fulfill its decision;

2) in other labor disputes – one year from the day when the employee, including the one who was previously in an employment relationship, or the employer learned or should have learned about the violation of his right.

Duration of the term for reviewing the individual labor disputes is suspended during the validity period of the mediation contract for the labor dispute under consideration, and also in the absence of a conciliation commission prior to its establishment.

In case of omission for good reasons of the fixed period of application, the conciliation commission on employment disputes may restore the period of application to the conciliation commission and resolve the dispute on the merits.

The conciliation commission independently shall determine whether the reasons why the employee, including those who had previously been in labor relations, did not apply to the conciliation commission within the prescribed time limit shall be valid.

The following deadlines shall be set for the participants in employment relations who are entitled under this Code to appeal to the court without recourse to the conciliation commission for the consideration of individual employment disputes:

on disputes about reinstatement at work - three months from the day of delivery or sending by mail by registered letter with notification of delivery of a copy of the employer's certificate of termination of the employment contract; in other employment disputes, one year from the day on which an employee, including one who had previously been in an employment relationship, learned or should have learned of a violation of his or her right.

Footnote. The Article 160 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 161. Reinstatement in a job

1. An employee who has been reinstated shall be paid a salary for all the time of forced absenteeism or a salary difference for the period of lower paid work when illegally transferred to another job, but not more than six months.

2. The decision of the conciliation commission or the court to consider an individual labor dispute on the reinstatement of an employee in his former job is immediately enforceable. If the employer delays the execution of the decision on reinstatement, the conciliation commission or the court makes a decision on the payment of salaries or salary differences to the employee during the delay in the execution of the decision.

Footnote. The Article 161 in the wording by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

CHAPTER 16. CONSIDERATION OF COLLECTIVE LABOR DISPUTES

Article 162. Definitions used in this chapter

The following definitions are used in this chapter:

1) labor arbitration is a temporary acting body, set up by the parties to a collective labor dispute involving authorized persons to resolve a labor dispute when an agreement is not reached in the conciliation commission;

Footnote. The Article 161 in the wording by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 01.07.2021 № 61-VII (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 164. Bodies for consideration of collective labor disputes and procedure for documentation and consideration of the claims of employees

1. Collective employment disputes shall be settled in the following sequence: they shall be considered by the employer (association, union) of employers) if it is impossible to resolve - in a conciliation commission, if the agreement is not reached in it - by labor arbitration, on issues that are not resolved by him - by the courts.

2. The requirements of employees on the application of employment legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan, fulfillment or amendments of the terms of agreements, collective and (or) labor agreements, employer's acts between employees and employer, association (association, union) of employers are formed and approved at a general meeting (conference) of employees.

A meeting of employees shall be considered eligible if it is attended by at least two thirds of the total number of employees of the organization.

The conference shall be deemed eligible if at least two thirds of the delegates elected by the employees in accordance with protocol decisions are present.

The decision of the meeting (conference) of employees is considered adopted if more than half of the participants voted in support of the requirements put forward by them. If it is impossible to hold a meeting (conference) of employees, the representative body of employees has the right to approve its decision by collecting more than half of the signatures of employees in support of the requirements put forward by them.

Representatives of employees agree with the employer on the rules for holding meetings (conferences) of employees, place, time, number of participants in the meeting (conference).

3. Employees' claims shall be stated in written and sent to the employer, (associations, unions) of employers within a three-day calendar period from the date of the meeting (conference).

4. In the event that these demands are put forward by employees of different employers, these demands may be submitted by industrial or territorial associations of trade unions or other individuals and (or) legal entities authorized by employees.

5. The employer, at the request of employees, is obliged to provide premises and create the necessary conditions for holding a meeting (conference) of employees and has no right to interfere with its holding.

6. Demands of employees when it is impossible to resolve them are considered in accordance with conciliation procedures.

7. At any stage of consideration of a collective labor dispute, the parties may apply to the mediator. The mediation procedure is independent of conciliatory procedures in the conciliation commission, labor arbitration and may be in parallel with them.

Footnote. The Article 164 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 165. Conciliation commission

1. The conciliation commission is a body established by a joint decision of the parties on a parity basis from an equal number of representatives from the employer and representatives of employees.

The decision to establish a conciliation commission shall be taken within three working days from the date when the employer, association (association, union) of employers (their representatives) bring their decision to the attention of employees (their representatives) or draw up a protocol of disagreement during collective bargaining. If there are several representatives of employees in the organization, they create a single representative body to participate in the work of the commission.

2. The employer, association (association, union) of employers creates the necessary conditions for the work of the conciliation commission.

3. Conciliation commission shall consider the demands of employees (their representatives) within a period not later than seven working days from the date of their receipt. The procedure for consideration of demands by the conciliation commission, extension of the specified period of review shall be carried out by agreement of the parties and documented by a protocol.

4. In the process of conciliation, the conciliation commission consults with employees (their representatives), the employer, the association (association, union) of employers (their representatives), state bodies and other interested persons.

5. A decision of the commission is made on the basis of an agreement of the parties, documented by a protocol signed by the representatives of the parties, binding on the parties and executed in the manner and terms established by the decision of the conciliation commission. In case of refusal by one of the parties to sign the protocol, the other party makes a corresponding record in the protocol.

6. If the agreement is not reached in the conciliation commission, its work ceases, and labor arbitration is established to resolve the dispute.

Footnote. The Article 165 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 166. Labor arbitration

1. Labor arbitration shall be established by the parties to a collective labor dispute within two working days from the date of termination of the work of the conciliation commission.

2. The number of members of the labor arbitration, its personal composition from among the representatives of the employer and representatives of employees, the procedure for considering a labor dispute are determined by agreement of the parties on a parity basis. Labor arbitration must consist of at least five people. The composition of the labor arbitration includes the state labor inspector, representatives of the tripartite commission on social partnership and regulation of social and labor relations. The members of the tripartite commissions representing the parties of the social partnership are included in the composition of the labor arbitration on a parity basis.

According to the demands of the workers, the members of the conciliation commission may not be part of the labor arbitration.

3. Chairman of labor arbitration shall be elected by the members of arbitration from among them.

4. Collective labor dispute is considered by labor arbitration with obligatory participation of representatives of the parties to the collective labor dispute, and, if necessary, also with participation of representatives of other interested persons.

5. Procedure for consideration of a dispute is determined by labor arbitration and brought to the attention of the parties to a collective labor dispute.

5-1. During the period of consideration of a collective labor dispute by labor arbitration, employees may hold a one-hour warning strike, except for the cases provided for in paragraph 1 of Article 176 of this Code, in which no more than fifty employees may take part.

Representatives of employees participating in labor arbitration must warn employees participating in an hour-long warning strike about the liability established by law in case of violation of its duration.

The employer must be warned by employees in writing about the beginning of an hour-long warning strike no later than three working days in advance.

6. The decision of the labor arbitration shall be adopted no later than five working days from the date of its creation by a simple majority vote of the arbitration members. When dividing the votes of the members of the labor arbitration equally, the chairman's vote is decisive. The decision must be reasoned, stated in writing and signed by all members of the arbitration.

7. If the agreement of the parties to a collective labor dispute is not reached in the conciliation commission in organizations in which the laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan prohibit or restrict strikes, the establishment of labor arbitration is mandatory.

8. A decision of labor arbitration shall be binding on the parties to a collective labor dispute.

9. In the event of non-fulfilment of the decision of labor arbitration within the specified period, the parties have the right to resolve the dispute in court.

Footnote. The Article 166 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication); dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 167. Consideration of a collective labor dispute involving a mediator

1. Procedure for consideration of a collective labor dispute involving a mediator is determined by agreement of the parties to a collective labor dispute.

2. As mediators, the parties determine the organizations and persons independent of them. The republican, industrial and regional commissions for regulating social and labor relations may, with the consent of the parties to a collective labor dispute, involve heads and employees of central and local executive bodies, associations and other public associations, employers and independent experts in the settlement of collective labor disputes.

In all cases of involving mediators from among them, a written consent for mediation must be obtained.

Article 168. Consequences of reaching an agreement of the parties on a collective labor dispute

1. In all cases of reaching an agreement between the parties to a collective labor dispute on its resolution with or without a mediator, the unfinished conciliation proceedings shall be terminated, and the terms of the agreement between the parties shall be considered as the conditions for resolution of the dispute.

Agreements reached by the parties to a collective labor dispute are documented in writing.

2. Agreement between the parties on settlement of a dispute entails termination of a strike, if it was declared.

Article 169. Guarantees in connection with resolution of a collective labor dispute

Members of the conciliation commission for the period of participation in negotiations on resolution of a collective labor dispute are exempted from work with preservation of wages.

Representatives of employees and their associations participating in resolution of a collective labor dispute may not be subjected to disciplinary sanction during resolution of a collective labor dispute, transferred to another job or employment contracts may not be terminated with them at the initiative of the employer without the prior consent of the body authorizing them for representation.

Article 170. Obligations of the parties and conciliatory bodies for settlement of collective labor disputes

1. Neither party has the right to evade participation in conciliatory procedures.
2. Disagreements not settled in a collective labor dispute must be brought to attention of the parties in writing.
3. If settlement of the disputes between the parties to a collective labor dispute is impossible because of the lack of authority of the representative of the employer, the demands of employees are put forward to property owners, founders (participants) or shareholders of organizations, including organizations located in the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan, whose property owners are foreign individual or legal entities or organizations with foreign participation.
4. In case of disagreement with the results of the procedures specified in paragraph 2 and 3 of this article, employees are entitled to use all other ways of protecting their interests provided for by law.
5. The employer is obliged:
 - 1) on the day of receipt of the workers' claims issued in accordance with paragraph 3 of Article 164 of this Code, inform the local labor inspection body about the occurrence of a collective labor dispute, followed by weekly information about the situation until its final resolution;
 - 2) during the day, inform the bodies of the Procurator's Office of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the local labor inspectorate about the beginning of a strike conducted without observing the requirements of this Code.

Footnote. Article 170 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 171. Right to strike

1. Employees may decide to hold a strike if, through conciliatory procedures, the collective labor dispute has not been resolved and, if the employer has evaded conciliation procedures or failed to comply with the agreement reached during resolution of the collective labor dispute.

2. A decision to hold a strike is taken at a meeting (conference) of employees (their representatives).

A meeting of employees is considered eligible if more than half of the total number of the organization's employees is present.

The conference is considered competent if it is attended by more than half of the delegates elected by employees in accordance with protocol decisions.

Decisions of the meeting (conference) of employees are considered to be adopted by a majority of the participants. If it is impossible to hold a meeting (conference) of workers, the representative body of workers has the right to approve its decision, collecting more than half of the workers' signatures in support of the strike.

If the interests of employees in the organization are represented by trade unions, then the decision to hold a strike is taken by trade unions, and in their absence – by elected representatives.

If the interests of employees in the organization are represented by a trade union and an elected representative, as well as several trade unions, the decision to hold a strike is taken by a single representative body created by them. A single representative body is formed in proportion to the number of employees who are and are not members of a trade union or trade unions.

3. A strike is headed by a body (strike committee), authorized by employees (their representatives). In the case of a strike declared by workers (their representatives) of several employers with the same demands, it may be headed by a joint body formed from an equal number of representatives of these workers.

4. Participation in a strike is voluntary. No one can be forced to participate or refuse to participate in a strike.

5. Persons forcing employees to participate or refuse to participate in a strike are liable in accordance with the procedure set up by the laws of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

Footnote. Article 171 as amended by the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 15.02.2023 No. 199-VII (shall be enforced sixty calendar days after the date of its first official publication).

Article 172. Announcement of the beginning of a strike

1. The employer, association (association, union) of employers (their representatives) shall be informed in written form by the body authorized by the employees specified in Article 171, paragraph 3 of this Code of the start of the strike and its possible duration not later than five working days before its announcement.

2. A decision to declare a strike shall specify:

- 1) a list of disagreements between the parties that are the basis for the strike;
- 2) the date, place and time of the beginning of the strike, the expected number of participants;
- 3) the name of the body, heading the strike, the composition of representatives of employees authorized to participate in conciliation procedures;
- 4) proposals for minimum necessary works (services) performed during the strike.

Footnote. The Article 172 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 173. Powers of the body heading the strike

1. The body heading the strike shall act within the limits of the rights granted to it by this Code and on the basis of the powers vested in it by its employees (their representatives).

2. The authority leading the strike has the right to:

1) represent the interests of employees in relations with the employer, the association (association, union) of employers (their representatives), state, trade union, other legal entities, officials on issues of resolving the made claims;

2) to receive from the employer, association (association, union) of employers (their representatives) information on issues affecting the interests of employees;

3) to cover the course of consideration of the demands of employees in the mass media;

4) to attract specialists to give opinions on the matter of dispute;

5) to suspend a strike with the consent of employees (their representatives).

3. The resumption of a previously suspended strike does not require a reconsideration of the dispute by a conciliation commission, an intermediary or in employment arbitration. The employer, the association (association, union) of employers (their representatives) and the body for the settlement of employment disputes must be warned of the resumption of the strike no later than three working days.

4. The powers of the body, heading the strike terminate when the parties to a collective labor dispute sign an agreement on its settlement, and also in case the strike is declared illegal

Footnote. The Article 173 as amended by the Law of the RK dated 04.05.2020 № 321-VI (shall enter into force upon the expiry of ten calendar days from the day of the first official publication).

Article 174. Obligations of the parties to a collective labor dispute during a strike

During the strike, the parties to a collective labor dispute must continue to resolve the dispute by negotiating.

The employer, state bodies and the body, heading the strike are obliged to take measures to ensure public order, security of the organization's property and workers' safety during the strike, as well as the work of machinery and equipment, the stop of which poses an immediate threat to life and health of people.

Article 175. Guarantees to employees in connection with the strike

1. Organization or participation in strikes (except for the cases provided for by paragraph 1 of Article 176 of this Code) may not be considered as a violation of the labor discipline by the employee and entail application of disciplinary sanctions provided for by this Code.

2. During the strike, the employee retains his place of work (position), the right to receive social benefits for temporary disability, work experience, and also other rights arising from labor relations are guaranteed.

Wages during the strike to the workers participating in it are not preserved, except when the strike is held in connection with non-payment or late payment of wages.

3. It is not allowed to replace workers participating in a strike in accordance with the procedure established by the legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan.
